

Gary Wills

Regional Representative, North America

Foundation FSSC

With over 30 years of experience in the food & beverage sector, Gary is committed to supporting organizations to become more resilient through standards, training, certification and consulting.

Gary began his career in operations and eventually moved to business development working for seasoning, flavor, and functional ingredient manufacturers. He transitioned to supporting industry in the food safety area 15 years ago, most recently as the North American Representative for FSSC.

A graduate and graduate assistant of the Dale Carnegie Course, Gary has long held a passion for building relationships and providing mentorship throughout the industry. He has volunteered for the Chicago Section IFT (CSIFT) for over 15 years, currently as the chair of the Student Engagement & Employment Committee and as a board member of the CSIFT executive committee. Gary is the founder of The Food Safety Professionals Group (The FSPG), a global organization with a purpose to build a community of like-minded food safety and quality professionals to network, share experiences, best practices and knowledge in a non-competitive environment.
